FILIBUSTER FACES RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

TO RIVAL ANY HOUSE HAS HAD
IN 5 YEARS PAST

BAND OF MIDDLE WESTERN
MEMBERS TO STAVE OFF
CONSIDERATION

OPPOSITION EXPRESSED AGAINST 9 FOOT CHANNEL IN ILLINOIS RIVER

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 24.—A filibuster rivaling any staged in the house in the last five years, faces the $36,000,000 rivers and harbors authorization bill.

The measure was laid aside by the house today until Thursday when a band of middle western members will continue their efforts to stave off its consideration.

Opposition to the measure centers around one provision providing for construction of a nine-foot channel in the Illinois river. Lake states claim that the diversion of water necessary for the canal jeopardizes the shipping on the lakes and has caused shore property to depreciate. The claim is also made that the diversion is used in Chicago for sewage disposal in the packing houses.

Under the special rule making the bill in order, 12 hours of general debate are authorized before the measure is subject to amendment.

Opponents of the plan offer several amendments to each of the 60 sections of the bill. This plan will retard the progress of the measure and may prevent a final vote until late next week.

The controversy over the Illinois project is expected to require nearly an entire day for settlement. Opponents will attempt to eliminate it from the bill and if this fails, they will probably make a number of efforts to reduce the amount of water diversion.

Washington, May 24.—Authority to attempt to restore to the river and harbor authorization bill the provision for a survey of the All-American canal across New York state was given Chairman Dempsey, republican, New York, today by the house rivers and harbors committee.

The provision was ruled out of the bill Saturday, because it carried a direct appropriation while the bill merely authorizes new work. Dempsey will remove the appropriation phase from the provision and offer it in the house as an authorization.

PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT SPREAD OF FOREST FIRES

Duluth, May 24.—(UP)—Precautions were taken in the Duluth district today to guard against a spread of forest fires in view of unfavorable conditions.

Sunshine and high winds have placed the woods in dangerous condition again and new fires broke out over the week end, resulting in several hundred additional men being called to the fire lines.

New fires were reported today near Brainerd, Staples, Warroad and Baudette, but none were serious, according to the state forestry office.

DIED AS RESULT OF GRADE CROSSING
ACCIDENT TODAY

Beloit, Wis., May 24.—(UP)—Joseph F. Luckeck, Woodstock, Ill., died this morning making two dead as the result of a grade crossing accident Sunday here. Ralph Winegar, driver of an automobile, struck by a St. Paul road train, was killed instantly. They were war veterans. Another war veteran with the dead in the car was seriously injured.

TWO GIRLS SAVE
BOY WHO FELL
OVER EMBANKMENT

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—Two University of Minnesota students were the rescuers of an eight year old boy, whose bicycle plunged over a 500 foot embankment, rendering him partly unconscious.

The girls, Miss Mildred Nissen and Miss Eleanor Bates, students in the school of nursing heard his cries. Investigating they found the boy, Robert Zell, 8, lodged on the cliffside 50 feet below. The descent was steep but the girls attempted it.

By a slow process they reached the boy in his precarious position and then repeated their careful labor in ascending to the top again.

FREIGHTER GOES TO THE AID OF A
RUDDERLESS SHIP

New York, May 24.—(UP)—The freighter Samland of the Red Star line, is on her way to the aid of the rudderless British freighter Emlynian, disabled in mid-Atlantic, according to information radioed to the New York office of the line by Captain Rene Bastin of the Samland. No further details were received.

The Emlynian is a freighter of 6,112 tons and was bound from Havre to Hampton Roads.

The Samland was 170 miles away when the message was received from the vessel in distress. The Samland was bound from New York to Antwerp.

GREATER N. Y.
CITY GIVEN FIVE MILLION CITIZENS

ESTIMATE FOR 1926 IS MADE BY THE CENSUS BUREAU

LOS ANGELES ALSO RECORDED A GREAT GROWTH SINCE
1920

Washington, May 24.—(UP)—Greater New York City was given a 1926 population of 5,924,000 by the census bureau in its estimates of all cities of the country whose population exceeded 30,000. Figures were withheld for cities where decreases between 1920 and 1925 were reported or where exceptional growth made the estimate inaccurate.

Los Angeles was included in the cities which grew during the six years since the last decennial census. Chicago's population, however, was placed at 3,049,999; Philadelphia at 2,008,000 and Detroit 1,290,000, based on the special census taken in 1925. All other estimates were based on the last preceding census figures, or state figures, taking into count all annexations.

Minnesota—Duluth 113,000; Minneapolis 434,000; St. Paul 248,000. Milwaukee, Wis., shows 517,000.

1,400 HOMING
PIGEONS FLUTTER
INTO THE AIR

Winona, May 24.—(UP)—Fourteen hundred homing pigeons fluttered into the air from cages here at 11 a. m. Sunday and today report were awaited from Milwaukee, their destination.

The pigeons were released under the auspices of the Milwaukee Flying club. They are trained long distance birds, valued at from $25 to $200. The home pens of all are at Milwaukee, a distance of 225 miles from Winona. The race is for $1,100 in prizes to be distributed among the winners. H. Flor, Milwaukee, was in charge of liberating the birds here.

GOV. BLAINE CALLS
COOLIDGE ORDER A RIDICULOUS ONE

Madison, Wis., May 24.—(UP)—Gov. John J. Blaine's "sense of humor" is preventing him from taking seriously the "ridiculous order" of President Coolidge to make every state and local police officer a "prohibition snoper." In a statement today Gov. Blaine declares:

"Wisconsin's constitution makes every person holding any office of profit or trust under our state, its counties or towns, ineligible to any office of profit or trust under the United States, except postmasters. My sense of humor prevents me from getting excited over the 'ridiculous plans' of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews to make every state and local police officer a prohibition snoper under the Volstead act."

Introduces Request to Examine Legal
Side of Coolidge Order

Washington, May 24.—(UP)—A resolution to authorize the senate judiciary committee to investigate the legality of President Coolidge's executive order designating state, county and municipal officers as federal prohibition agents was introduced in the senate today by Sen. King, democrat, Utah.

MOONSHINE
PLAYS HAVOC
AMONG YOUTH

18 YEAR OLD ST. PAUL BOY IS DEAD, ONE SERIOUSLY ILL

2 OTHER YOUNG MEN AND 2 WOMEN IN PARTY NOW IN CUSTODY

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—Death of an 18-year-old boy and serious illness of one younger, as a result of moonshine liquor threatened today to develop into a widespread inquiry of conditions among St. Paul's younger generation.

Two other young men and two women, alleged members of the drinking party that resulted fatally, are in custody. The two women were accused by one of the boys of selling the liquor to them.

Harold Jennings, 18, whose body was found in an alley behind a school building, died, according to an autopsy, of alcoholic poisoning and suffocation.

Raymond Johnston, 14, is ill in a hospital from the effects of the liquor. His mother, heartbroken at the tragedy, blamed it on pool hall associates. Johnston was to be questioned today regarding the circumstances of Jennings' death.

In custody are Rose Huber, 24, widow, and the mother of five children; Genevieve Walters, 20, who was taken to jail with her year-old child; Gordon Flannery, 18, and George Schwartz, 19.

The women were arrested in adjoining homes. In one, police found a fully equipped 10-gallon still. In the other a quantity of mash and some liquor was found.

2 MYSTERIES CONSIDERED
BY THE POLICE

BODY OF WOMAN TO BE EXHUMED TO SEE IF SHE IS MRS.
RING, MINNEAPOLIS

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR RING, AUTOMOBILE FOUND NEAR
BIG LAKE

Minneapolis, Minn., May 24.—(UP)—Two mysteries were being considered as one by police and private detectives today in the hope that both will be solved.

The body of a woman, found dead in the Mississippi river near Ellsworth, Wis., on April 23, will be exhumed to see if she can be identified as Mrs. L. R. Ring, wife of a Minneapolis business man, who is missing.

In the Ellsworth case, the woman was found in the river, clothed only in a night gown. Efforts to establish her identity failed and she was buried. But detectives believe she may have been Mrs. Ring, who disappeared two days before the Ellsworth drowning was discovered.

Meantime, a search continues for Ring himself who disappeared after his wife's absence was discovered. His automobile was found near Big Lake, at Elk River, Minn. The waters of the lake were dragged without result.

Mrs. Ring's parents live at Neenah, Wis.

SAYS COOLIDGE
ORDER INFRINGES
ON HOME RULE

Columbus, O., May 24.—(UP)—President Coolidge's executive order commissioning state, county and city officials as federal dry enforcement agents is an "infringement on home rule," Gov. A. V. Donahey declared today in a statement sharply criticizing the order.

"Any such dual authority would be, in my opinion, decidedly dangerous," the governor said. "I have always been an advocate of home rule and this seems to be an infringement of the rights of individual states."

OWL EXPRESS HITS
FREIGHT; ONE KILLED
AND EIGHT INJURED

Mansfield, Mass., May 24.—(UP)—One man was killed and eight injured when the Owl, a Boston-New York express, on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, crashed into a freight train at a crossing here today.

Scores of passengers in the 11 sleepers were thrown from their berths and bruised but did not require medical treatment.

Mansfield, Mass., May 24.—(UP)—The locomotive and two sleeping cars of the Owl, a Boston-New York express on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, left the rails and overturned early today in a crash with a freight train here.

The engineers and fireman of the express have been taken to a hospital at Providence and were reported in a critical condition. Several were slightly injured. A towerman escaped when his tower was destroyed by fire which broke out in the overturned cars.

The accident occurred near the station here.

"WORDLESS PRAYER"
TO BE HELD OUT-OF-
DOORS AT TAMARACK

SPONSOR OF RITE JUNE 1 IS VERNON
NON EWING OF THAT VILLAGE

OPTOMETRIST EXPLAINS THAT HE IS "WEARY OF SIN"

By WILLIAM E. HALLBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Tamarack, Minn., May 24.—(UP)—Persons of all creeds have been summoned to a "wordless prayer" to be held outdoors in a heavily wooded grove near here on Tuesday, June 1, in the belief that such a spectacle will cause God to manifest Himself.

The sponsor of the rite is Vernon Ewing, 39, of Tamarack, an optometrist, who explains that he is "weary of sin" and hopes that such a gathering will have a spiritual influence on the world.

The prayer, beginning at 10 A. M., will last one hour.

Ewing expects a great response to his appeal. He has written scores of letters, inviting individuals to participate and has received replies from all parts of the United States. He has taken to the newspapers now in the belief that the greater the prayer group, the more certain the response from God.

The prayer will have no sectarian tinge, Ewing announces. At 10 o'clock the assemblage will fall silent. One hour later it will disperse. There will be no formality; the participants may stand, kneel as they please. But they must be motionless and quiet.

During the prayer Ewing hopes that God will give a sign of His response. It may take the form of a miracle, or it may be only an indirect indication that He has heard the prayer, Ewing explains.

"Maybe the world is as He wishes it to be," Ewing said. "If so, He may do nothing, but I firmly believe He will not disappoint us. The combined silence of a large assemblage of all classes of people looking for something from God, will be a real demonstration of faith and will give God an opportunity to do as He will. And it is possible it will have a spiritual influence on the entire world."

Ewing confesses disappointment in the "large number of conflicting creeds." He believes the world should be united in its religious purposes as he hopes to unite all faiths in his wordless prayer.

The grove in which the prayer will be held is located two miles from Tamarack, is thickly wooded with poplars, and typical of the wild country of northern Minnesota.

Geneva, May 24.—The drafting committee of the League of Nations preliminary disarmament commission today agreed on a program of seven questions to form a basis for the agenda of the proposed disarmament conference.

SENATORS IN MORTALITY RATE
THAT'S ALARMING

CAUSING A PANIC AMONG SOME OF THE OLDER
SOLONS

MAY INFLUENCE PENDING PROHIBITION AND FARM RELIEF PROPOSALS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 24.—The political mortality rate among senators is causing a panic, which may influence pending prohibition and farm relief proposals.

Although there seemed little hope that any agricultural or liquor legislation would be passed before adjournment, senators on both sides today announced their intentions of forcing the issues.

The fact that three senators have lost in five primaries this year has impressed deeply the 34 who are up for re-election. The political death rate is far above normal.

Taking advantage of the situation Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, announced he would move to take up all farm legislation on the senate calendar, probably today.

Senator Cummins, republican, who is running for renomination on the Iowa primary, June 7, announced he would move Wednesday or Thursday to take up the Goff measure to tighten the Volstead act. Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, leader of the "senate beer bloc," has served notice that he would offer his referendum and beer bills as amendments, thus forcing a vote.

SEN. REED IN ATTACK ON THE
COOLIDGE ORDER

PERMITTING STATE AND MUNICIPAL OFFICERS TO SERVE AS DRY AGENTS

SAYS PRESIDENT HAS UNDER-TAKEN TO OVERRIDE
CONSTITUTION

St. Paul, Minn., May 24.—(UP)—Senator James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, attacked President Coolidge's executive order permitting state and municipal officers to serve as federal prohibition agents, in an interview here today.

"What I regard as the most important news now," he commented, "is the fact that the president has undertaken to override the constitution and give every policeman a chance to go snooping into the private affairs of people."

"It doesn't look as though we have much of a constitution any more but we will have one again and it will be respected when the democrats get back into power."

Reed was pessimistic about the prospect for congress enacting farm relief legislation and said that the many interests involved make it unlikely that anything will be done, despite efforts to reach an agreement on a compromise measure.

Reed was here to argue a case in the United States circuit court of appeals.

ST. PAUL PEEVED
AT CENSUS BUREAU
POPULATION REPORT

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—This city is peeved at the census bureau of the United States department of commerce.

The census bureau today estimated the population of St. Paul at 234,693, an increase of only 12,902 from the last official census, while civic officials claim the population should be figured at 267,806. A directory estimate places the population at 347,688, but that is for greater St. Paul.

Nothing will be done about it, of course, but St. Paul will ignore the census bureau figures.

BOOTLEGGERS NOT REQUIRED TO KEEP
BOOKS ON SALES

Washington, May 24.—(UP)—Bootleggers cannot be required to keep records of their liquor sales for federal inspection, the United States supreme court ruled today. The ruling was made in affirming lower court decisions quashing two indictments charging Jacob Kutz and George Senn, and Kutz and Herman Feinstein, all of Philadelphia, with conspiracy to violate the Volstead act by selling whiskey without keeping a record of their sales.

Associate Justice Stone read the high court's opinion.

MINNESOTA DELEGATION TO NATIONAL CONVENTION LEAVES
IN 2 COACHES

GOVERNOR THEODORE CHRISTIANSON LEADS MINNESOTA BODY

Minneapolis, May 24.—(UP)—Many newspapers of Minnesota will be without the guidance of their editorial leading lights beginning today.

The Minnesota delegation to the National Editorial Association convention at Los Angeles June 30 and July 1 and 2 began arriving early today, preparatory to boarding two special coaches for Los Angeles.

Included in those who will make the trip were Governor Theodore Christianson, Herman Roe of Northfield, national president of the association; H. C. Hotelling, national secretary, and others. They were entertained at luncheon today by the Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Association.

Later in the day, the two-coach delegation will depart for Trenton, Mo., where it is to become part of a special train, made up in the east, which has been adding coaches as it proceeds across the continent.

The Minnesotans will urge the election of Roe as national president and attempt to bring the 1927 convention to Minneapolis with the help of Minneapolis and Duluth civic associations.

If the convention is obtained, editors from all over the country will be taken on a three weeks' tour of Minnesota.

Special functions all along the route to Los Angeles will divert the editors. In California, they will be hosted and toasted during the convention and then taken on a sight-seeing trip through the state.

POLICE DOG FAILS TO SAVE MASTER

ROBBERS KIDNAP SAM MARKUS,
ST. PAUL, STEAL $1,000
DIAMOND RING

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—Two bandits kidnaped Sam Markus from in front of his home, carried him to a park on the outskirts of the city and there robbed him of a $1,000 diamond ring.

Markus was putting his automobile into a garage when the two bandits commanded him to throw up his hands. Mrs. Markus heard the commotion from a doorway and unleashed a police dog, Von Hindenburgh. The bandits fought the animal off, placed Markus in their automobile and drove away.

From the automobile, Markus watched the dog race after the speeding auto for blocks. Von Hindenburgh finally gave up, exhausted, after a chase of more than a mile. After robbing Markus the bandits drove away.

The dog returned to the Markus home with froth dripping from its mouth and dropped wearily to the floor, refusing food or drink.

When Markus returned, the animal leaped up in joy.

Duluth—Burt Webb, 25, died at a hospital here late yesterday from injuries received in an automobile accident. The car in which Webb was riding skidded and overturned on a loose gravel road.

REPUBLICAN
AND FARMER
LABOR PARTIES

DEMOCRATIC BALLOT NOT NECESSARY, NO CONTEST
FOR GOVERNOR

ELIMINATION OF STATE TICKET
RESULTS IN SAVING IN PRINTING

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—Only two ballots will be used in the Minnesota primary election June 21. They will be the republican and the farmer-labor.

A democratic ballot has been made unnecessary by the agreement of Michael F. Lambrecht of South St. Paul, to withdraw his name for the democratic nomination for governor.

However, in congressional districts where there are democratic contests for nomination for representative, ballots must be printed, but the elimination of a state ticket will result in a material saving in printing cost to every county in the state.

Lambrecht's withdrawal, which was to be filed today, automatically insures the nomination of Alfred Jacques, Duluth attorney, as the party's candidate for governor.

The democratic state ticket thus becomes:

For governor—Alfred Jacques, Duluth.

For lieutenant governor—C. D. Johnson, Brainerd.

For clerk of the supreme court—Winifred McDermott, Clontarf.

For secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor, attorney general, railroad and warehouse commissioner and for some congressional nominations, the democrats have no candidates.

RUMORS OF
ANARCHIST PLOTS

Havana, May 24.—(UP)—Rumors of anarchist plots against the American embassy here and the American consulate have revived, special precautions being taken to guard the buildings. The police moves were on instructions of the government.

Washington, May 24.—(UP)—Action of the Cuban government in providing special police protection for the American embassy in Havana, will probably be followed by similar precautionary measures in other Latin-American capitals to prevent further dangerous Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

It is feared here the bomb explosion at the American embassy in Buenos Aires last week, may be duplicated in other South American cities by radicals charging that Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of murder by Massachusetts courts, are victims of a "capitalistic plot."

WEEK END AUTO
MISHAPS OF THE
TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—Week end automobile accidents in the Twin Cities resulted in the injury of 15 persons, four of them so seriously they may die.

The return of warm weather brought automobiles out on the streets and highways in great numbers. Many accidents were reported outside the Twin Cities on state roads.

Six persons were injured near Anoka and two men were arrested as a result.

McNIVEN NAMED
ON TAX COMMISSION

St. Paul, May 24.—(UP)—John H. McNiven, of Chisholm, a real estate dealer, today was appointed by Governor Theodore Christianson to be state tax commissioner.

McNiven succeeds the late Odin Hallden, of Duluth, who died recently.

McNiven was a member of the house in the 1917 legislature at the same time that the governor was a state representative.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT

Fergus Falls, Minn., May 24.—(UP)—The May term of the United States district court will open here tomorrow with Judges John W. Sanborn of St. Paul and J. W. Molyneux of Minneapolis on the bench.

Soft Plaid Taffeta and Blue Georgette Crepe

The "Bonnie Lassie" pictured here in her highland costume is a prominent motion picture actress. Soft plaid taffeta and blue georgette crepe, the edges of the silk being fringed instead of hemmed, are the features of this outfit. With the dress is worn a tam-o'-shanter trimmed with gros-grained ribbon. It is a smart costume for sports wear.

Dinner Jacket Tailleur
Is Sensation of Season

The dinner jacket style of tailor-made is the sensation of the season. There is no sign, however, that it will become popular with the vraie elegants. The girl who affects a masculine style will adopt it in order to distinguish herself from her sisters who remain faithful to their chiffons and laces. It has arrived a little late. Paris is in the midst of a return to the ultra-feminine. All the greatest fashion creators have underlined those subtle allurements that no woman worthy of the name can resist. Masculinity makes for monotony, and the natural woman longs for variety. The new feminine fashion gives her all the change she can desire, and for that reason, apart from its natural beauty, it is assured of success.

The raised waistline has cleverly resolved itself into the bolero corsage, either frankly indicated all around or simulated by means of tucks or plaits. This is most becoming to slim figures and is very suitable for the short skirts that are promised a renewed lease of life. Further, it has the advantage of being easier to wear than a definitely pronounced high waistline.

Chiffon, Embroidered
Dresses for Evening

For evening dress it is a case of the plain ethereal chiffon gown against the more elaborate embroidered creations. Both are equally popular and suit women of widely different types. Printed chiffons are much used for evening gowns—indeed, even more so than last season. Lace, too, is enjoying a splendid vogue, both in black and all manner of lovely colors. The beaded gown dies hard. It has a competitor in the sequined dress and in the new chain mesh in gold and silver that is being used by some couturiers, but nothing seems likely to dislodge it definitely from the position of popularity it has held for so long.

A striking trimming note which is beginning to be exploded by French followers of fashion is the matched fur trimming. The fur is dyed to exactly match the principal color of the costume and the effect is as unusual as it is smart.

Stress Individuality

Individuality is the touch sought for in modern dress. Anything that looks so like what others wear as to become a sort of uniform is taboo. Consequently ensembles consisting of coat and dress seldom show the same shade for each. For example with a gray skirt, a crepe de chine blouse of lighter gray surmounted by a wine-colored sweater, forms a smart sports costume. Under a gray squirrel cape, a red crepe de chine dress is worn with black hat and gloves adding to the contrasting effect.

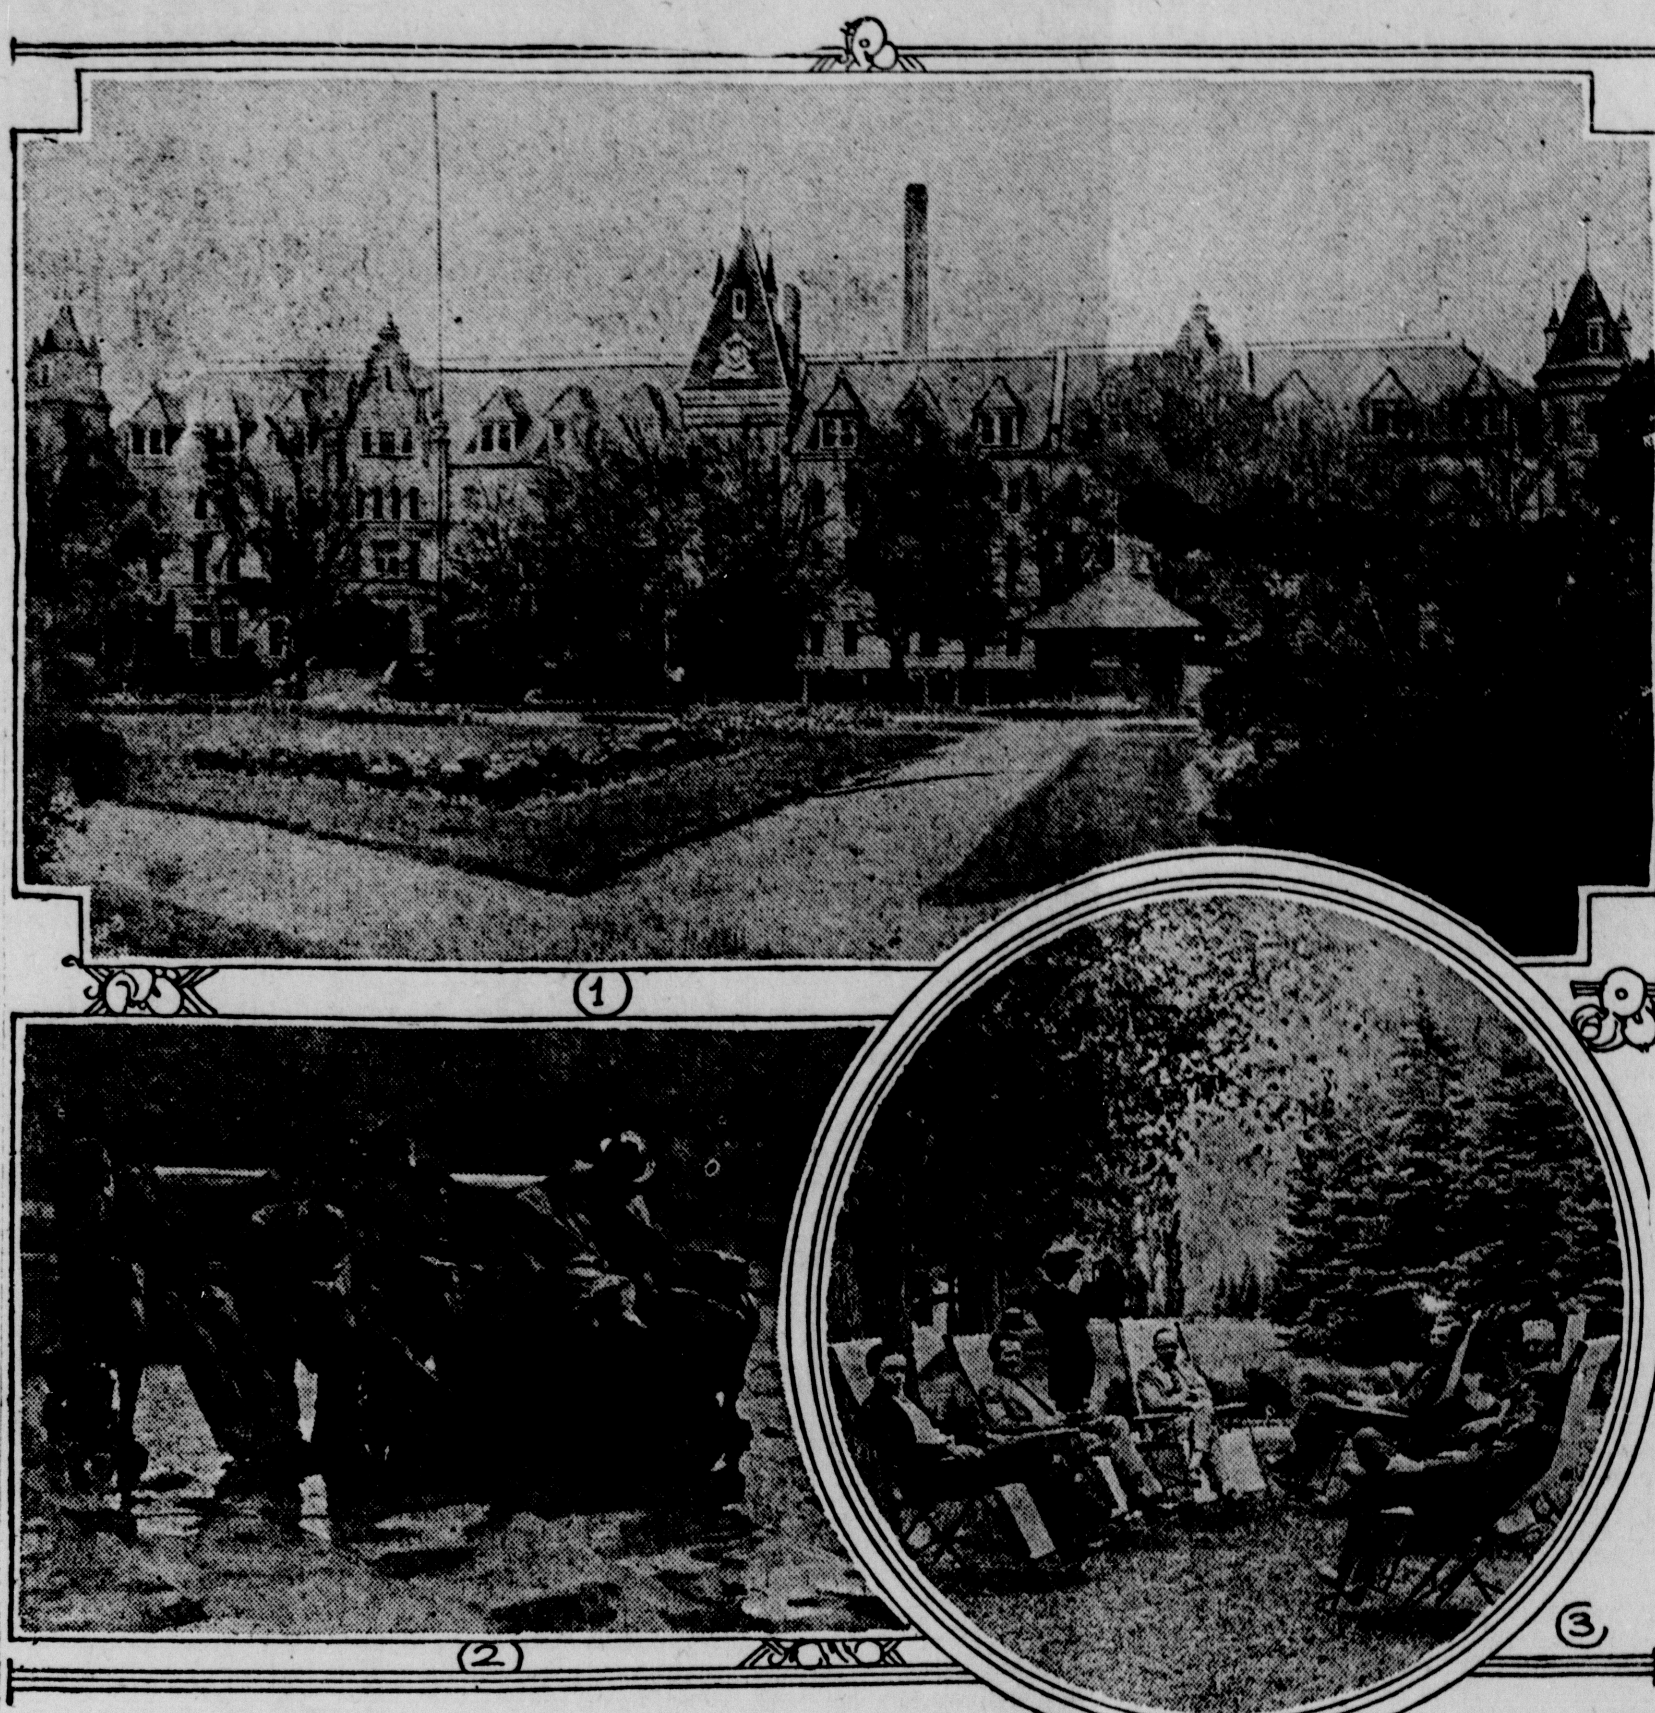

Inserts and Cutouts

It is difficult to say whether the new evening wraps are of fur with cutouts or with fabrics with fur inserts. The new arrangements are on a nearly 50-50 basis. One wrap recently imported is of gold cloth embroidered in silver and decorated with pink stones which edge inlaid bands, chevrons and scallops of panther fur.

Flower Prints

Flower designs in crepes and chiffons exploit the more subtle colorings and are much in evidence in spring and early summer fashions.

Famous Painting Suggests Title for Typo Movie

1. Main building, Union Printers Home, Colorado Springs, Colo. 2. Dollman's oil painting, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" 3. Showing contrast between treatment of disabled printers and the fate of derelicts seen in painting.

Dollman's famous painting, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" supplied the inspiration for the recently released motion picture, "His Brother's Keeper," produced by the International Typographical Union, which will appear on the screen at the Lyceum theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 1 and 2.

Sight of a group of derelicts shivering in a cold London rain on a bench beside the Thames Embankment so impressed the famous artist that he made it the subject of his best-known painting. In the background of the picture gleam the lights of a great hotel where men and women of wealth and fashion are indulging in feasting and gaiety, heedless of the city's poverty and want.

The motion picture draws a parallel between the lot of the destitute outcast, overtaken by illness or old age, and that of the union printer, who is guarded against misfortune by the sanctuary of the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs, the old age pension system, burial benefit fund and other protective institutions maintained by the International Typographical Union.

Dash and vigor, unusual in an educational film, characterizes "His Brother's Keeper," according to critics before whom it has been exhibited. It is said to be replete with humor and action from beginning to end.

Typographical Terrace, the beautiful headquarters property of the union—formerly the estate of an Indianapolis millionaire—is shown in the opening scenes. The action then swings to Colorado Springs, Colo., where a group of tourists in a summer hotel are admiring the mountain scenery. An eastern philanthropist, who has become interested in the union printers' independently waged warfare on the White Plague, invites the group to accompany him to the Union Printers Home.

The huge institution is inspected from all angles and resident printers are observed at rest and at play. The older residents engage in a typesetting contest with stick and rule and the entire Home population—excepting hospital patients—is accompanied into the mountains on a picnic party. From that point the picture moves with vivid rapidity.

The International Typographical Union, although one of the oldest of trade unions, has been little known to the public, since it has engaged in but few industrial disputes. The first printers' unions were formed in New York and Philadelphia, about 1795. A national convention was held in Baltimore in 1836 and the permanent organization was effected in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1852. It has existed continuously since that time, steadily growing in influence and prestige, until today it has subordinate unions in all cities and towns of consequence in the United States, Canada, the Hawaiian Islands and Porto Rico, and its resources amount to many millions of dollars.

The Union Printers Home was erected in 1891, and has been greatly enlarged since that time. It cost originally about $75,000, but today represents an investment of more than $3,000,000. The union's old age pension system provides for payment of $8 weekly to older members who are unable to obtain sustaining employment. More than 3,000 members are receiving the pension. The mortuary benefit ranges from $75 to $500, the maximum payment being made upon the death of any member with a continuous membership of fifteen years or more.

Trade education is also a major undertaking of the Typographical Union. More than 7,000 apprentice printers are enrolled in the correspondence course conducted by the Union's Bureau of Trade Education. Committees of journeymen printers in the various cities are charged with overseeing progress of students.

James M. Lynch, president of the International Union, who sponsored the old age pension, graduated mortuary benefits and bureau of education, is a staunch exponent of the doctrine that trade unions must foster trade skill and guarantee competence of members if they are to enjoy public confidence and the greatest possible growth.

"The Keeper of the Bees," the delightful new novel by Gene Stratton-Porter which appeared recently in McCall's and which is now sweeping the country in book form, will begin a two day run at the Lyceum theatre on Tuesday. J. Leo Meehan, who made a tremendous reputation with "The Girl of the Limberlost," directed the new production, the work of little Gene Stratton Monroe, granddaughter of Mrs. Porter, is of particular interest in that she is the actual "Little Scout" of the story.

If your laugh-system hasn't experienced any exercise lately, he yourself quickly to the Lyceum tonight and see Johnny Hines in "Rainbow Riley." If that doesn't turn your system into the laughingly piece of mechanism, there is probably something wrong with you. "Rainbow Riley" is a rollick from start to finish. It's fast, funny, clever, spontaneous and refreshing.

We must confess candidly to a long-standing liking for the energetic, fast-moving Hines. In "Rainbow Riley," which is an adaptation of "The Cub," Johnny goes through his capers like a romping thoroughbred.

Golden Rule
Policy

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has tested, and found practical, a policy that may seem visionary to people who think of any business organization as a machine.

This policy is the application of the Golden Rule on the large scale of big business.

It is manifested outwardly, in the ever-increasing service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to the thirty million people of the Middle West, and inwardly, in the helpful attitude of the management towards the employees of the Company.

Concrete illustrations of the internal application of the Golden Rule are the Employees Stock Purchasing Plans.

The first was formulated five years ago and met such enthusiastic response that a second Employees Stock Purchasing Plan is now offered to all members of the organization.

By means of the first plan (which provided that for each $1.00 subscribed by the employee, the Company would contribute 50 cents) the employees made themselves one of the largest stockholding influences in the Company.

The results of the first plan are far-reaching. It has enabled the employee to become a partner in the business, and he has given to his work keener interest and greater effort, knowing that he will participate in every saving he effects.

As a result of this policy, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is remarkable for the compactness and harmony of its working force. And ultimately the general public benefits from the increased efficiency.

This one illustration is a concrete proof that the Golden Rule in business is practical. Theoretically, also, it appears to be a sound business principle.

The individual who forgets his profit in the joy of doing his particular work well, usually enjoys the largest compensation; so in big business the organization that considers the service of the community first makes greater profits in the end.

Such a logical explanation of the practical working of the Golden Rule in business subtracts perhaps from the glory of its unselfishness, but it evidences the plausibility of its everyday application in the world of big business.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) carries the Golden Rule policy further, in its Industrial Relation Plan and in its Annuity Plan, which emphasizes the conviction of the management, that the Golden Rule is a practical business maxim, in harmony with economic laws—and that its benefits accrue directly, to the consuming public in superior quality, low prices and maximum service.

"THE BLOODY FIFTH"

THIS week's installment of the biography of Knute Nelson, as written by Martin W. Odland and appearing in the Sunday issue of the Minneapolis Tribune, is the most interesting of the series. It is entitled "The Historic Kindred-Nelson campaign." Much mention is accorded Brainerd, because this town was headquarters for Kindred.

It was the age when candidates established newspapers to support their fortunes in the political field.

"No record has been made of the number of newspapers either bought or started by the Kindred managers, but it was probably greater than the total of a man's fingers. In the city of Fergus Falls alone two were launched—The Telegraph, an English daily, and Tiden, a Norwegian weekly. Duluth was not slighted, a new daily being set adrift on the journalistic sea from that harbor. Many, if not most of these abortive organs came to naught after Kindred's political hopes had been shattered, but while the campaign lasted they helped to enliven many lonely firesides in the woods, and on the prairies of northern Minnesota."

A newspaper always has a precarious base when it exists as the mere organ of a man's political aspirations. A newspaper, to be a permanent institution, must stand for more than one man's ideas of political economy and patronage.

"When the convention met at Detroit, Minn., more than twenty special correspondents were at the scene. It was the biggest event of the day in the eyes of all St. Paul and Minneapolis editors. Their papers printed from three to eight columns on the convention. The most vivid and lurid story was that of the St. Paul Globe, written by H. P. Hall. The heading was 'The Bloody Fifth,' and from that time on the district bore that sensational name."

"In 1882, Detroit was a village of about 1,500 people with only one hotel of any consequence. How to house the visitors that would flock to attend the convention was a problem. Kindred, with his money, was forehanded. Long before the big day, he hired every room in the principal hotel except one—that was reserved for Knute Nelson by the proprietor, a Civil war comrade."

"The friends of Nelson brought to the village a large tent which they erected on a vacant plot, not far from the convention hall. They thought it might serve two purposes; as a camping place for houseless delegates and other friends; as a convention hall, if it became necessary to hold a convention outside of Bowman's opera house. It served both purposes."

Trains poured into Detroit on the day of the convention. "Three sleepers came through from Minneapolis. The others, from Duluth, were attached at Brainerd, one being occupied by the Graves men, the other by Kindred's backers and his bolting delegates from St. Louis county. Brainerd filled three coaches. Kindred himself and Sleeper, his chief of staff, being among the number."

There is a lot of mention of Colonel Johnston, chairman of the congressional committee, who was deposed because he defied the majority of the committee.

"The right of the committee to depose its chairman when he refused to do its bidding, became a burning question in the campaign. It was submitted to James G. Blaine and Edward McPherson, the parliamentarian of the national house of representatives, both eminent authorities on parliamentary procedure, and both held that the committee acted within its rights. Schuyler Colfax, former vice president and speaker of the house, gave a similar opinion, whereas the Kindred partisans were unable to produce contrary opinions from any authorities of standing."

There were probably a hundred men present armed with pistols, but fortunately not a shot was fired. Each side tried to stage its convention, and the respective chairmen stood side by side. Pandemonium reigned.

"After about five minutes of this scene, former Sheriff Mertz, Brainerd, a very resolute man and warm friend of Kindred, jumped on the platform and, grabbing Comstock, tried to pull him off, saying, 'You have no business here.' Comstock, the Nelson chairman, stood his ground valiantly. In the excitement, the reporters' table was overturned. After a lot of argument, the Nelson supporters left the hall and repaired to their tent. Thus two conventions were held, that of the Kindred supporters in the opera house, the Nelson men in their tent."

"Correspondent Hall's assertion, that Mr. Kindred 'had but little backing but his money,' is undoubtedly too strong. He had a likeable personality, nor was he lacking in brains. Brainerd was for him almost to a man, not altogether because he was a liberal spender, but because the community liked him. If he had not been so grossly indiscreet in disbursing his wealth, he would have proved a very formidable contender for the congressional prize."

"Mr. Kindred's strength was in the territory along the lines of the Northern Pacific. In that territory he had put many influential men under obligations to him. In Dakota, which of course was not a part of his district, the sentiment for Kindred was very strong. Fargo sent its brass band to help the Kindred campaign."

Crow Wing county had this representation on the congressional committee, W. W. Hartley, Frank Thompson and C. B. Sleeper. The historian, Mr. Odland, seems to have made a slip or else the typesetter did. W. W. Kartley, as stated in the biography, should be Hartley. We notice Moses E. Clapp was among the delegates from Ottertail county.

The chairman of the congressional committee, Colonel Johnston, was a Detroit lawyer and no relation whatever to our Col. C. D. Johnson of Brainerd, druggist, who spells his name without a "t" and who has been a life-long democrat except when William Jennings Bryan enunciated his free silver propaganda.

AN expectant world awaits the publication of the Chamber of Commerce and county commissioners map of the lake region of Crow Wing county. Many inquiries have been received for the map. Winnipeg tourists wanted some of the maps. The map will show lakes, roads, summer resorts, etc., in the whole county. Much care has been exercised in the compilation of information and in drawing the map. All that remains to be done is the actual printing.

JUST as soon as THE DISPATCH praises the warm weather, the thermometer slips to low depths. In the midst of a story praising the rainfall, the moisture suddenly ceased. The weather seems very "touchy" when under observation.

Hardy Workers on Dizzy Tower of Railway That Will Rise 10,000 Feet in Bavarian-Tyrol Alps

As the first step in scaling the heights of Zugspitze in the Bavarian-Tyrol Alps, railway engineers built a temporary cable line to hoist supplies up the side of the mountain. This cable, 12,500 feet in length, is one great piece, being free of splice. Work was begun in 1925 and by this time steel towers have been erected. There is a run of 3,000 feet from the first pillar to the second, a trip over space that is awe-inspiring when made in one of the little work cars which make the trip regularly. The picture shows men at work.

Farmer Had Strong

Faith in Black Art

Frederick Riehl, a farmer, has been telling the magistrates at Marggrabowa, in East Prussia, the extraordinary things he had to do at the command of a witch who undertook to bring him prosperity.

He had to write in honey on a thin cake of bread the magic words, "Adonis dear, Adonis my own! Thou canst do all. Thou art friendly and thy goodness is eternal. Help me this once. Thou art the Lord!"

Then he had to wash his hands and face in water on which the morning sun had not shone, to say a prayer to Adonis seven times and tie a cake of bread round his neck.

At the same time he had to lend the witch a carriage, he had to get the heart of a white toad and tie it with three feathers under the seat of a bicycle he had bought for the wizard who assisted the witch. He provided 30 yards of English cloth to darken the room in which the witch called up spirits, and 1,200 marks of good money went from his pockets to hers.

If the witch, in private life a farmer's wife, and the wizard, a shoemaker, had been genuine Frederick Riehl would not have complained, but they were nothing less than a false witch and wizard, in fact, common swindlers.

They were unable to prove their qualifications to practice the black art, and the witch got three months' and the wizard six months' imprisonment for fraud.

Deep Canyons That Lie Under the Sea

Out in mid-Atlantic is a tall and stately peak named, for some forgotten reason, Mount Laura Ethel. Put it down in the midst of the Rockies and it would tower up with the best of them, but because its highest point falls just a few score fathoms short of reaching sunlight, thousands of transatlantic passengers each year sail over the hidden mountain top without ever knowing it is there, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Off the western coast of Africa lies the Congo canyon, bigger and deeper than the Grand canyon of Arizona and more strangely beautiful; but no man has ever seen its depths, and it is improbable that any man ever will. For the Congo canyon is at the bottom of the Atlantic, one of the vast valleys between the giant mountain peaks whose tops fail to break the surface of the sea, and so remain unknown to all but the hydrographers who plot the mystery land under the waves.

Lumber Substitutes

There are three substitutes for lumber being made—one of bagasse and two from wood fiber. The properties of these synthetic boards are much different from those of ordinary lumber. The material is not usually so hard and is of a more porous and open texture. It is claimed by manufacturers of these materials that when used in certain ways it develops satisfactory strength. For instance, it is used for sheathing for houses. The bracing effect of the large pieces nailed to the studding is claimed to be about as good as where diagonal sheathing is used. It is apparently a better insulator than ordinary lumber because of its open texture. The material is not so strong as wood in bending. Another advantage for it is that it can be obtained in large sheets which, for many purposes, is quite worth while.

Room's Center of Interest

Every room, according to the decorators, must have a center of interest, a colorful, interesting point to which one's eyes are immediately drawn as he enters the room. This center of interest may take in the fireplace and the assemblage of furniture that goes with it; or, where there is no fireplace, a wall of books and a comfortable chair or two may be the general drawing point; or, again, the davenport with the tapestry or mirror and pictures that hang above it may be the king group in the room. But certainly, there should always be one setting that, by its size or color strength, or comfort value, keeps all the other groups subordinate to it.

Physical Perfection

The Society of Directors of Physical Education has set the following standard of measurements of the physically ideal American student of twenty-two: "With a height of 5 feet 9 inches he carries a weight of 150 pounds. The girth of his neck, knee and calf are the same, with the upper arm 1½ inches less. The girth of his thigh is ½ inch less than that of his head. His expanded chest is 40 inches, the girth of his waist is 10 inches less, his hip girth almost the same as his unexpanded chest, while the breadth of his waist barely exceeds the length of his foot, and the stretch of his arms measures 2 inches more than his height."

Baton First Used by Conductors in Church

Ludwig Spohr, famous violinist, conductor, and composer, who is known to the general public chiefly by his oratorio, "The Last Judgment," and his song, "Rose, Softly Blooming," was the first to use a baton for conducting a large orchestra in England.

But, like Safonoff, who became famous ten or fifteen years ago as the man who conducted without a baton, he was simply reviving in a more convenient form an older custom.

The use of the baton is, in fact, a very ancient one, though the manner of its use has varied. It probably arose from the fact that in the larger churches, and especially on great occasions, the director of the choir had a staff of office something like a bishop's crozier, but with a different head. This he held in his left hand while directing the singers with the right.

Now and then, however, he had to recover the attention of his singers, when he would stamp on the floor with his staff, doing the same thing also on occasion to keep them together.

In later times, when boys began to take part in the singing, he used it as a means of chastisement, and gradually transferred it entirely to the right hand. We may, therefore, say that both conducting with a baton and conducting without one come from the same ecclesiastical methods.

Entirely New Angle to Payment of Bills

The smart young man approached the hotel proprietor.

"Look here," he said, "I want you to settle a little argument that has arisen between me and my friend here. I said I was coming to you to pay my bill."

"Very glad to hear it," said the proprietor. "But what is wrong with that?"

"Well, my friend says I ought to have said your bill. That's the point."

"Come to that, I suppose it is my bill."

"But you said it was my bill just now."

"So it is—your bill and my bill, too."

"In fact, then, you contend that it's our bill?"

"Of course it is!"

"Well, that suits me all right. If it's our bill, of course, we divide it. Just make out my half, will you? There's nothing like getting things straight."

Really Deadly Wine

The dark fluid in the sponge on Mount Calvary intended for the lips of Jesus of Nazareth when he was suffering on the cross was not vinegar, but morion wine, believes the English biologist, O. A. Newell. This so-called wine was a powerful, sleep-producing drug in ancient times often given condemned men when they were being executed. During the Roman occupation of Palestine the method of capital punishment was crucifixion, a long process that caused the victim great agony. The Jewish women, under the sanction of the grand sanhedrin, would administer the death wine to the victims on a sponge, whereby they were put to sleep and their sufferings abated. This wine, says Doctor Newell, was distilled from the root of the mandragora plant. He finds references to it in ancient teachings with a formula for making it.—Capper's Weekly.

Woman Astronomer

How many people, who think that a scientific woman is a Twentieth-century product, know that Caroline Herschell was, a century and a half ago, assistant astronomer royal?

Her brother was the famous astronomer, but her mother in Hanover would let her have no accomplishment outside household duties, except knitting. Her father, however, gave her violin lessons on the sly.

Then her brother offered her a home in England, and she came over and became a successful singer. Taking up astronomy, she became her brother's assistant, and herself was responsible for the discovery of eight comets. Undoubtedly a very clever woman, she rejected all praise, thinking it might detract from her brother's reputation.

Picture Screens

Screens have come into their own, and rightfully so, because they are useful and bring into a room a charming note of variety. A most attractive screen is one which is covered with wallpaper, plain or having a very tiny pattern, and then decorated with a colorful picture, mounted on the upper part of each panel of the screen. Pictures done in silhouette effect could well be used here.

After the picture has been applied to the background it is advisable to shade it in order to make it appear to be really part of the background. This will give the rich, antique appearance, so much in vogue today.

The traveling salesman was telling the other fellows in the pullman smoking compartment the reason why his uncle in Cleveland had the most prosperous shoe-shining stand in a block dotted with footgear polishing emporiums.

Character in Mythology

Phaon depicted in "A Reading From Homer," was a deformed boatman of Mytilene. He was famed for his chivalry. Once an old woman asked him to ferry her across the sea, although she could not pay her fare. When safely across the sea the woman gave the kind ferryman a box of ointment, telling him to rub the contents on his misshapen shoulders. When he did so, Phaon was changed to a handsome young man. Venus, in the guise of the old woman, had wrought the miracle. Soon Phaon and Supho became lovers.

Origin of "Tabloid"

The word "tabloid" was arbitrarily coined by Burroughs, Wellcome and company of London, England, and applied to a preparation of drugs in a concentrated and condensed form. Although the term is a copyright trademark of this firm it is now widely used to designate anything concise or condensed, as tabloid newspapers.—Ex. change.

There Are Some Things You Do Not Want

You don't want this Store to have so-called "sales," to change its selling prices from day to day, to increase or to reduce its prices to you.

You do want the same, fair, advantageous prices every day in the year, thus enabling you to determine whenever you are shopping just what you are getting in Quality and Savings on each article purchased.

Furthermore, it is of great importance to you to have comparatively fresh stocks to select from day after day. We lay no claim to having always the largest stock. The superiority of our goods, for one reason, rests in the fact that shipments are constantly arriving from our forty buyers in New York who are constantly in the market. Thus our goods are never shop-worn, soiled nor undesirable in other ways.

Our 676-Store Buying Power means standard quality and prices that are uniformly low.

BRAINERD WAS TOO LATE WITH HIT RALLY

FOUR RUNS ARE GARNERED IN EIGHTH INNING

DULUTH TEAM WINS 7 TO 5 FROM BRAINERD N. P.
NINE

LEFTY HANSON OF THE VISITORS WENT "HAY-WIRE" NEAR FINISH

Bringing the game to a thrilling climax by having three men on the sacks in the final inning, and inaugurating a hitting bee in the eighth inning which netted them four runs, but starting the fireworks just a little too late, the Brainerd N. P. City team lost their first home game to the Duluth team by the score of 7 to 5.

The last two innings were ones which brought the 300 local supporters in attendance to their feet as one, cheering on their team and crying for the tying scores. "Lefty" Hanson who heaved a wonderful game for the visitors allowing only one run up till the eighth, suddenly went "hay-wire" when the local heavy hitters commenced clouting him for clean hits. Four men crossed the home plate in the eighth inning for the Brainerd team before the third man was finally put out.

It certainly looked "plenty" rosy for the locals in the last half of the last inning when again they started clouting Hanson. Ware had started it with a clean hit to shortstop, making a quick getaway at home and being called safe on the initial has-sock. Uddenberg whiffed the air when he came to bat but even that didn't discourage the local heavy hitters. They were out to tie the score and finally bring home the bacon.

The jinx, breaks of the game, fate, or whatever it may be called, however, ruled otherwise. It seemed the locals were doomed to go down to defeat despite their good playing. Kline followed the good work of Ware by hitting through shortstop, and Nason filled the sacks with a safety to left field. It was up to Peterson. Coming to bat he was ready to make up for his slackness in the field in the early part of the game by knocking "that old pill" for a four-base hit, clearing the bases and win the game. Again fate decreed otherwise. As the resounding crack of the hickory met the ball all eyes were focused on the ball as it shot with lightning speed to third. Cossett, the third baseman for Duluth, at that time became the idol of the Duluth team for he speared Peterson's hard drive out of mid-air, and tagged out Ware on third base for a double play unassisted. The game was over, but it was not forgotten because it was clean all the way through and some good playing on both sides was seen.

Errors again were the downfall of the local team. There were times in the game and particularly in the third inning and the first half of the eighth inning that the Brainerd team looked like a bunch of rookies, and not a high class ball team. But then every team has its slumps during a game so too much criticism might not be favorable.

The Brainerd team scored the first run of the game in the first inning. Ware bringing in the run on an overthrow to first from shortstop by Cossett on a hit by Kline.

Delbern pitched good ball for the Brainerd team and had proper support been given him would won the game. Two changes were made on the local team, both being poor ones. Ziebell was placed on the initial sack and while he played a good game, his place is not on the initial has-sock. Hanson, the regular first baseman, was not on deck, he being on a visit to the cities. Then Peterson was positioned in center field which did not prove very satisfactory.

The play by innings follows:

First Inning

DULUTH—J. P. Anderson, chairman of the Ball Park Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, threw the first ball, thereby opening the home season of the N. P. team. Cossett, first man up, watched the last ball thrown by Delbern pass over the plate; Server fled to Uddenberg and Sours struck out.

BRAINERD—Ware hit safely to center field; Uddenberg hit to Hedberg, Ware making second; Kline hit to Cossett who threw wild to first. Ware trotting across the home plate for the first run. Kline was thrown out at second as he attempted a steal. Nason hit to second and was thrown out at first by Sours. Brainerd 1; Duluth 0.

Second Inning

DULUTH—Hedberg hit to second, Uddenberg, shortstop, fumbling the ball; Christie bunted to Ziebell who threw slow to second, both runners being safe; Holstein hit to Delbern and was thrown out at first. Green hit to center field, Hedberg coming home and Christie was caught in be-

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Jess Petty of the Robins, who, although he had heard just a few minutes before the game of his mother's death in Texas, went ahead and pitched one of the best games of his career, the Robins beating the Giants, 2 to 1.

Eddie Collins' single in the ninth broke up a pitchers' battle and the White Sox beat Cleveland, 1 to 0.

The Browns kept right on losing, dropping a close one to Detroit, 2 to 1. The Yankees won their 12th straight by pushing over the Red Sox 6 to 3. It was Waite Hoyt's second victory in two days.

Pittsburgh made 15 hits off three pitchers and had no trouble in subduing Cincinnati 7 to 2.

Philadelphia ended its western invasion with a 7 to 5 victory over the Cardinals.

Walter Johnson was batted from the box in the eighth inning and the Athletics triumphed over the Senators 5 to 3.

Eight pitchers were sent to the mound in a game which the Cubs took from the Braves 14 to 8.

The Kaws stepped into first place in the American association when they defeated the Saints 13 to 3, while the Colonels were losing to the Hens. The Blues took the lead at the start and were never headed.

Rallying in the ninth inning after the Colonels had led through most of the contest the Hens won 7 to 6.

Rapping out 11 hits while the Indians scored only seven, the Senators won their ninth game of the season, 6 to 2. Two big innings gave the Brewers a 7 to 4 victory over the Millers.

PAAVO NURMI BREAK ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD

BACCALAUREATE

SERVICE HELD

Rev. J. H. Bollens Addresses High School Graduating Class and Friends

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Assembly Room Decorated by Sophomore Class With Flowers and Colors

The baccalaureate service for the 1926 graduating class was held Sunday evening, May 23, in the auditorium of the high school.

The assembly room which was fittingly decorated by the Sophomore class with flowers and the Senior colors, was filled to its capacity with friends, relatives and alumni.

The time honored and impressive grand march was this year led by Stewart Gile, senior president, and Esther Bentley, class secretary.

The baccalaureate address was given by Rev. J. H. Bollens who in the course of his talk paused to look back with the graduates and bring back to mind the many incidents of the past four years which they spent with the alma mater, saying that they would never cease to look back in after years on the social and vocational opportunities that their school afforded them and the friendly associations that grew up in its environment. Classes, sports, social functions, and fellowship with the faculty all tended to show that "the incidents of the past only have meaning in so far as they are related to the future," and he likened the graduates to the immigrant who dropped bag and baggage in Brainerd and was given the advice by his employer to "think twice before you speak and look before you leap."

In looking forward a hasty glance into the future would show the fortunate students who were attending higher institutions of learning and yet others who had the opportunity to receive practical training for a specific profession or trade.

The alma mater has a right to expect something from her proteges, they should use to good advantage the powers entrusted to them, make their minds a habitable place for charitable thoughts, their bodies a living temple for a living God, and take their places in the world they were born in and the opportunities it affords them.

Rev. Bollens took his text from Acts 21:5-6, and in closing his highly interesting address told the graduates of the great debt that they owe to their alma mater and that they should show their appreciation and gratitude by meeting the debt, the most acceptable way being to follow the precepts of the humble carpenter of Nazareth.

The following was the order of service:

Large Group Motored to Upsala for Young Peoples Meeting Sunday

A group of five cars containing members of the Swedish Bethany church left at 7 o'clock Sunday morning for Upsala to attend the morning and afternoon sessions of the St. Cloud-Brainerd district Young Peoples conference of the Swedish Mission Covenant. Those making the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swanson and children, Leslie, Evelyn, Eugene, and Genevieve; Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson and children, Virginia, Roger and Byrtel, Elmar E. Erickson; Mrs. Albert O. Anderson and son Donald and nephew Milton Anderson; John Soderlund, Carl Bloomgren, Paul Swanson, Ralph and Harold Lindberg, and the Misses Ella Danielson, Ellen Erickson, Anna Swanson, Hazey Fallquist. Two other cars left Saturday, containing Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lund and family, John Lund, Rev. and Mrs. P. G. Fallquist and children and the Misses Florence Swanson and Ellen Dahl who were the delegates from the local Christian Endeavor society.

APPLICANTS FOR COAST GUARD

Young men between the ages of 18 and 24, who are high school graduates, or equivalent thereto, wishing to take the entrance examination for the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut, should immediately communicate with Congressman Harold Knutson at Washington, D. C.

Funeral of Mrs. Kaufman

The funeral of the late Mrs. N. Kaufman was held Saturday afternoon, from the Peoples Congregational church and was largely attended.

The pastor, Rev. N. P. Olmsted paid a touching and tender tribute to the unselfish life of the deceased, who by her gentle ways had endeared herself to the entire neighborhood. The floral offerings were many, beautiful expressions of sympathy to the bereaved family.

Relatives and friends attending from out of town were Misses Bess Kaufman and Jennie Terras of Hanford, N. D., Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Tene Fisher of Duluth, Mrs. John Kaufman of Iowa, Mrs. Frank Kaufman, Elmer Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. George Kaufman of Mendota, Ill. Interment was at Evergreen cemetery.

MUCH TIMBER IS LOST

All Fires Today Reported as Being Well Under Control

Fires swept through two sections in Crow Wing county, and three sections in Cass county over the weekend, burning a great deal of timber. It was reported this morning from the office of E. H. Rhodes, district forest ranger.

With the full force of fire fighters on the job fighting the fires all fires are today under control with no new ones of any size reported.

Fires swept through section 6 of Baxter township, section 28, Watertown township, of Crow Wing county, and section 17 and 20 of Loon Lake township, of Cass county.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETING

First Congregational Church Organization Entertained by Mrs. G. S. Swanson

The Missionary society of the First Congregational church held its regular monthly meeting Friday, afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. S. Swanson.

Led by the president Mrs. Walter Folsom, "Jesus Shall Reign," was sung to the piano accompaniment by Mrs. Swanson, as the opening of the exercises.

The afternoon program was arranged and directed by Mrs. N. P. Olmsted, who introduced the study of America upon the life of the immigrant.

Mrs. W. W. Eane told the story of the Danish immigrant girl, who, after coming to America with her parents, lived on a homestead, after which she later attended and graduated from Northland Academy, Ashland, Wis., then going back to her home to teach. Mrs. George D. LaBar gave a biographical sketch of Roland Hayes, who, from a poor boy (colored) with a talent for singing rose to the ranks of the leading artists of the day. The narrative was the more vivid, as Mrs. LaBar had the pleasure of hearing the noted singer in Los Angeles during the winter. Mrs. C. W. Hoffman spoke on the study of the drama and its relation to the church after which Mrs. D. E. Whitney, in a very pleasing manner, read the short drama, "Jelivaveeta" which pictured the Slavic immigrant girl becoming Americanized.

The program closed with the singing of "Oh Beautiful For Spacious Skies," Mrs. Folsom being the accompanist.

During the social hour which followed, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Nichols assisting. Five visitors were present.

NOTICE

All lot owners of lots in cemetery wishing their lot taken care of should pay G. W. Chadbourne, secretary or Robert Jaeger, superintendent at cemetery. No lots will be cared for unless paid for. Parties having bodies in vault should see the superintendent and arrange for burial at once.

REV. EVERSZ TALKS

ABOUT MAYOR CAIN

Tells of Some Faults, But Also Praises Him For Law Enforcement Stand

AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY
Claims Recall Would Tend to Weaken Efforts of Other Officials

Yesterday was the anniversary of the descent of the Holy Spirit, and in his sermon commemorating that sacred event at the First Methodist church, Rev. M. L. Eversz, after showing that witnessing power included all of a christian man's talents, possessions and attainments, he also showed that Pentecost was totally misunderstood if christian men and women, claiming to be so inspired, did not work with might and main for community betterment, and "right here," said the speaker "I want to say a word about the situation centering about Mayor Cain."

"If the mayor were not a christian man belonging to a great body of liberty loving Evangelical christians and trying conscientiously to enforce the laws, the situation would not merit any of my pulpit attention. The whole head and front of his offending is that he is too zealously trying to do right. He was elected on a platform of community betterment by cleaning up the town, and he is opposed because he takes his vows too seriously."

"Granted for the sake of freer discussion that he is no public speaker. Granted that he has been too zealous even to indiscretion. Granted that he is just an ordinary citizen. Granted that he is too stubborn. Granted that he is no politician—the whole situation is now simmered down to a head on collision between the wets and the dries. You throw out Mayor Cain and you weaken Sheriff Reid in his courageous efforts to suppress bootlegging. You throw out Mayor Cain and you handicap Governor Christianson in his program for civic righteousness. You throw out Mayor Cain and you insult President Coolidge, who at this very moment is putting more teeth into the Volstead law to enforce the 18th amendment."

"The early church met a similar situation at the very outset, similar in principle. Simon Magus came with a money bribe to buy the Holy Spirit, thus to corrupt religion at its very source. Annanias and Sapphira came with a lie on their lips and graft in their hands to cheat the growing christian community of which they were a voluntary part. So with this situation, the real issue is wet versus dry. All the other accusations are mere camouflage. It is perfectly sound doctrine that the liquor traffic can never be legalized without sin, in any quantity of it, in any moment of it, in any degree of it."

"It is perfectly sound doctrine that the law breaker is not the law maker nor the law upholder. I am with the mayor. The wets dare not nominate an out and out dry man and I am greatly concerned that you, my people, shall not be muddled nor befuddled on this issue. The very fact that the city clerk had to throw out many of the names on the petition for recall as illegal shows the serpentine tactics of the opposition."

"The mayor may have been imprudent, he may have gone with his police to investigate bootlegging. I honor him for it. I would follow to the death a captain who goes over the top saying 'Come on boys,' but could hardly respect one skulking in the dugout saying 'go boys.' Mayor Cain may have been over zealous, but of one greater than us all it was said, 'the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up,' and the Psalmist said 'My zeal consumed me because thine adversaries kept not thy word.' I call upon christian men and women over all our city to face the issue, and rout the wets. It is a Pentecostal privilege."

CHANGE AT STUDIO

James Gorham Increases Studio Staff With Park Falls, Wis., Photographer

James Gorham of the 10,000 Lakes studio has increased the personnel of his studio staff with the addition of C. L. Shuemaker of Park Falls, Wis. He comes highly recommended as a first class photographer and is experienced both in portraiture and commercial photography and begins his duties at the studio today, his family joining him as soon as possible.

The Senior class picture is now on view at the studio and as this is the most attractive display of the year and a representative of practically 82 families, it is creating a great deal of interest. The Senior colors, purple and gold have been attractively used and a large gold curtain makes an effective background for the pictures. Individual pictures of the class officers and the salutation are also shown.

NO .400 HITTERS IN THE NATIONAL CLAN THIS YEAR

PREDICTION IS MADE BY RAJAH
ROGERS HORNSBY OF CARDINALS

EVEN ROGERS HAS AVERAGE OF ONLY .344 PER CENT

By BERT M. DENBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, May 24. "There will be no .400 hitters in the National league this year!"

This prediction was made by Rajah Rogers Hornsby, while he and his Cardinals were playing here early this year, and seems destined to be fulfilled as the National league teams turn into the second quarter of the 1926 season.

When Hornsby made his prediction, several players, both rookies and regulars, were above the .400 line. But Rogers was emphatic in his statement that they would not be there when the curtain was drawn.

Now with only one-fourth of the games played they are not there, and the way things are going along now, it does not seem possible for them to get back.

The Rajah himself has a batting average of only .344, a figure which would be considered high for most ball players, but low for Hornsby.

Rogers, in making his prediction, said that the lively ball has been taken out of the league and a dead one substituted. He said this is quite noticeable when one hits a fast one squarely on the nose and sees an outfielder gather in when the same kind of a hit would have gone to the bleachers during last year.

And Hornsby hits enough of them on the nose to know.

Hornsby's prediction also carried with it the information that the leading hitter this year would not be 10 points either way from .350.

So far he is about right.

In the American league things stack up rather differently.

This "Murderers' Row" that the Yankees have, is boosting the averages plenty high.

Dugan with his .414, Ruth his .395 and Meusel his .382 give plenty of reasons for the Yankees being where they are at present. It is interesting to note that Dugan is the only regular in the league that has a .400 average and at this stage of the season, in prior years, several have had it.

It is also interesting to note that the veteran Cobb is pushing the leaders with a .389, after more than a score of years in the big show.

SEALS TONIGHT

MEET AT MUNICIPAL BALL PARK
IN CITY LEAGUE
GAME

Tonight the Y. M. C. A. and the Seals meet in a city league baseball fixture at the municipal ball park at 5:30 o'clock.

The Seals are a new aggregation of ball players and from their initial appearance, they are a team to be reckoned with in the race for the pennant.

The batteries for the game tonight have not been announced yet.

Coach Predicts End of

Scouting in Football

Football scouting some day will be outlawed by the principal educational institutions of the country, in the opinion of Marc S. Catlin, coach of Lawrence college football. When scouting, particularly in football, has been abolished athletics will have been placed on a much higher plane, Catlin says.

The present practice is not only costly, he points out, but it defeats the elementary purpose of athletics.

"Athletics are intended to develop the mind as well as the body," he contends. "Under the system now employed the player does not have to exert his intellectual powers to any great extent. It is a battle of wits between coaches, not players."

Heals Leg Sores

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of Peterson's Ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 520

Girl's Noses Will Not Shine Now

A new kind of face powder is here.
Made by a new French Process—stays on until you take it off. Pores and lines do not show. Not affected by perspiration. Gives life and beauty to your complexion almost unbelievable. It is called MELLO-GLO. You will love it. Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co. —Advt.

Watch Your Frail, Puny Child Grow Strong Take on Weight

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of—these wonderful flesh making tablets called Mc-Coy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will start to help any weak, thin, under-nourished little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it. They do put on flesh.

Ask H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—as easy to take as candy and not at all expensive—60 tablets 60 cents.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine and give the child a chance for 30 days. If you aren't delighted with results just get your money back. —Advt.

EYE GRANULATION

Relieved by Lavoptik
"In a short time, LAVOPTIK relieved granulations on my eye lids.
It is very soothing."—H. H. Brown.
LAVOPTIK is a mild, soothing antiseptic which stops eye pains and inflammation surprisingly quick.
Makes tired and weak eyes feel strong and fresh. Johnson's Phar-

WANTED A NEW DRESS SO SHE LEARNED CHECKERS AND BECAME A CHAMPION

"If you can beat me at checkers, you'll get it," replied Mrs. Anna Berlis' husband when she importuned him for a new dress. This happened two years ago in their home in New York City. Mrs. Ber-lis learned the game so well that soon she was able to replenish her wardrobe. Since then her fame has spread throughout the country and few experts can beat her. She has to her credit a draw with Alfred Jordan, recognized as the world's best checker player.

Car Ferry American Idea
Car ferries that transport whole freight trains across various bodies of water in this country were the first in the world. They were first used on Lake Michigan in 1888. Ferries on Lake Baikal, in Siberia, across the Baltic between Germany and Sweden, across the English channel, and between Havana and Key West, are all designed after our Lake Michigan ferries.
